DON'T BET ON IT

A LED ZEPPELIN REUNION? UNLIKELY, BAND MEMBERS INSIST AS THEY LAUNCH THEIR NEW CONCERT FILM, CELEBRATION DAY PAGE 7

REGINA metro®

Wednesday, October 10, 2012

News worth sharing.

metronews.ca | twitter.com/metroregina| facebook.com/metroregina

STYLE | SHOPPING | SPIRITS

WWW.S3REGINA.COM
3-11PM, OCTOBER 13TH
CONEXUS ARTS CENTRE
FACEBOOK.COM/S3STYLESHOPPINGSPIRITS

Provincial E. coli cases not related to XL plant: Ritz

Tainted meat.
Facility at centre of outbreak undergoes 'pre-inspection'

Canada's agriculture minister says 13 cases of E. coli reported in Saskatchewan are not linked to the Alberta plant involved in a massive beef recall.

Gerry Ritz says these people don't have the same strain of E. coli as 11 other Canadians who have fallen ill from meat that is linked to XL Foods Inc.

Canadian Food Inspection Agency staff were in the XL plant in Brooks, Alta., Tuesday, for a "pre-inspection" to see if the company has fixed problems that forced its closure on Sept. 27.

Those problems included the management of E. coli risk, maintenance and sanitation.

Ritz says the pre-inspection is only the first of a multi-stage process the company must go through before it will be allowed to resume operating and no date has been set for it to reopen.

More than 1,800 XL Foods products have been recalled across Canada, along with more than 1.1 million kilograms of beef that was exported to the U.S. and 20 other countries.

THE CANADIAN PRESS/CKOM

CFIA under microscope

Worries about tainted Canadian beef has a Saskatchewan Liberal MP seeking a review of the Canadian Food Inspection Agency (CFIA) by the federal auditor general.

- The call from Regina's Ralph Goodale comes as meat products shipped to other countries are returned to Canada because of concerns over E. coli contamination.
- Goodale says federal Agriculture Minister Gerry Ritz should resign because of the tainted-meat scare.
- The federal government has said any review of the CFIA will be done by the agriculture ministry.

Agriculture Minister Gerry Ritz speaks to the media in Calgary, last week, as he provides an update on Canadian food safety. The minister announced Tuesday that the 13 cases of E. coli reported in Saskatchewan are not linked to the XL Foods beef recall. JEFF MCINTOSH/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Aboriginal leaders give failing grade

Ottawa's education-funding numbers for Saskatchewan's First Nations youth are misrepresented: FSIN PAGE 2

Sandusky gets minimum 30 years

Ex-U.S. football coach who sexually abused boys remains defiant at sentencing hearing PAGE 3

Vice-Chief Simon Bird of the Federation of Saskatchewan Indian Nations fields questions on Tuesday at a press conference in the FSIN boardroom.

BRIAN MOSKOWITZ/METRO IN SASKATOON

FSIN challenges feds on education funding

Aboriginal Affairs. Leaders call the ministry's statistics 'falsified numbers'

BRIAN MOSKOWITZ
saskatoon@metronews.ca

A prominent Saskatchewan aboriginal leader on Tuesday invited Aboriginal Affairs Minister John Duncan to Saskatchewan for a first-hand look at the current state of First Nations education in the province.

"I'm asking that Minister John Duncan accept my invitation to come tour our elementary and secondary schools and point out which school actually gets sufficient funding for First Nations in Saskatchewan," Vice-Chief Simon Bird of the Federation of Saskatchewan Indian Nations announced at a press conference at the FSIN boardroom.

Last Tuesday, the ministry said it spent an average of $13,542 for each aboriginal student nationally during the 2010-2011 school year. Saskatchewan aboriginal students receive $12,159.

But Bird and other aboriginal leaders are calling the ministry's statistics "falsified numbers."

According to the Assembly of First Nations, the amount of funding for each student totaled $7,101, which is roughly $3,000 less than the national average for non-Native students.

The 2012 federal budget included $275 million to further support First Nations' education. But the FSIN says that amount — which covers a three-year period — will not bridge the current funding gap between native and non-native students, and does not account for inflation and growth in population.

"We are expected to do the same job, to prepare for the same future — that is very competitive — yet we're not given the tools to be able to prepare our students," said Bird. "It not only hurts us as First Nations people, it hurts everybody that wants to participate in this economy, Saskatchewan and nationally."

Minister Duncan was not available for comment.

Sask. conflict-of-interest policy weak: Report

Saskatchewan's ombudsman says the province has some work to do when it comes to drafting a new policy to address conflicts of interest with government employees.

Provincial ombudsman Kevin Fenwick tabled a report Tuesday on the government's existing conflict-of-interest policy.

He said the current policy, drafted in 1986 and last revised in 1994, does not reflect or deal with conflict situations that may occur in public service and currently treats all conflict of interest cases alike.

"There has to be a more comprehensive policy — one size does not fit all," he said, calling for both immediate short-term solutions and long-term changes to be completed within a year.

ROB BROWN/METRO

Ombudsman

Complaint prompted review

Provincial Ombudsman Kevin Fenwick said the impetus of the review was a complaint received about how the government dealt with an employee of the Ministry of Social Services planning to run in a civic by-election.

"Sometimes it does take a complaint or incident to get the ball rolling on things like this," he said. In coming up with recommendations, Fenwick said existing provincial policies as well as some state policies in the United States and Australia were examined.

"We did try to keep it to looking at mostly Commonwealth nations," he said noting the province had been looking forward to his report. "The province does have some work to do — but they have agreed to what we are saying and are aware of what we're doing," Fenwick said. METRO

Unanimous

Regina City Council approves $7.5M purchase of CP Rail land

Regina City Council approved a $7.5 million purchase of 17.39 acres of Canadian Pacific Rail land Tuesday night.

"This is not a decision made out of haste or any other priority. The priority here is community," said Coun. Wade Murray.

Council unanimously approved the purchase of the land, located between Broad Street and Albert Street along Dewdney Avenue, with hopes it will reconnect the warehouse district to the downtown core.

Council also approved that up to $2.1 million be transferred from general reserves to support initial site prep for future development.

City CFO Brent Sjoberg said warehouse district stakeholders would likely begin meeting in 2013, while reclamation of the land will start in 2014.

ROB BROWN/METRO REGINA

Governor General

Johnston's Sask. visit starts in Prince Albert

Gov. Gen. David Johnston began his visit to Saskatchewan with several appearances in the northern city of Prince Albert.

Johnston met with more than 400 students from six area schools, who asked him questions about his job. Students have a vital role in Canada's future, he said.

"I hope that as young people, as students, understand more about what makes us free, why the rule of law is important to us, that it ensures so many of those freedoms and liberties that we enjoy and shouldn't take for granted, they would say, 'My, I want (to) do my best to be sure that continues.'"

The governor general was also meeting with chiefs and senators from the Prince Albert Grand Council.

Later Tuesday, Johnston presented three residents from Prince Albert with the Caring Canadian Award at the Albert Jenkins fieldhouse.

Johnston and his wife will be in Saskatchewan until Thursday. Johnston is to take part in events to mark the 100th anniversary of the legislature in Regina.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bettina's shimmy shakes U.S.

It wins her a green card. Canadian burlesque star has 'extraordinary ability' — just like a scientist, athlete or IT nerd Bettina May can shimmy like nobody else — and she's convinced U.S. immigration authorities of it.

The Canadian burlesque performer has managed to get her U.S. green card as a "resident alien of extraordinary ability."

And that's a category reserved for scientists, IT specialists, athletes, celebrities and someone "unique in their field."

Her first plans now she has landed immigrant status in the United States? A trip home to Victoria, B.C.

"First and foremost, it means I can come back to Canada to see my parents. I haven't been able to go home for two and a half years," she said.

Leaving the U.S. would have meant "a very slim chance of getting back in. I've been homesick."

She added: "Now I'll be able to visit the other half of Canada and know I can come back to New York."

May also runs "pin-up class workshops" that teach women the art of makeup and hair styles that hearken back to the Second World War glamour girl era.

"A lot of younger women never learned how to do their hair or makeup from their mothers," she said.

"It can be a huge transformation for them to become more self-confident and positive about their bodies."

May took her stage name from her great-aunt Betty, also a redhead.

Quoted

"New York is the best city in the world for burlesque and I can make a living here. But Toronto also has an awesome burlesque scene."
Bettina May

May had graduated from the University of Victoria with a degree in political science when she realized her own vintage style of glamour could be her livelihood.

"I'd always had more of an hourglass figure but it wasn't until I saw old pictures that I realized — these women had curves and hips and were the glamour icons of their day.

"There was something about it that was sweet and innocent and still sexy."

Despite her U.S. status, the 33-year-old granddaughter of Saskatchewan farmers said she remains proudly Canadian and lists socialist politician Tommy Douglas as one of her heroes.

"I'm still a Canadian citizen and I will always remain so. But it's nice to have that ease of movement."

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Sultry and successful

Bettina May's vintage 1940s style puts a sparkle in the eyes of her audiences.

- Start. She launched her career in Western Canada 10 years ago as a pinup model and moved to New York in 2009.
- Finish. Her shows feature a leisurely sultry striptease that ends with just a brief flash of nudity.

Raven-haired burlesque star Bettina May's "extraordinary ability" landed her a U.S. green card. COURTESY ALAN SMITH

Supersonic! Ill winds blow, so skydiver puts off 37-kilometre free fall

Extreme athlete Felix Baumgartner cancelled his planned death-defying 37-kilometre free fall Tuesday because of high winds.

It was the second time this week he has been forced to postpone his quest to be the first supersonic skydiver.

The former military parachutist from Austria had planned to ride a pressurized capsule carried aloft by a 55-storey, ultra-thin helium balloon into the stratosphere, and then jump in a specially designed suit.

Because the balloon is so delicate, it can only take flight if winds are 2 m.p.h. or below. The team said he has a second balloon and intends to try again, possibly on Thursday. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tempting tragedy

What are the risks? One is called "boiling blood."

- Lethal. Any contact with the capsule when he jumps into space can tear his pressurized suit. The extreme cold can then cause lethal bubbles to form in his blood and bodily fluids.

Spilling the beans

Polanski victim to tell all in memoir

The former teen whom film director Roman Polanski was convicted of having sex with — leading to his flight from the U.S. — is writing a memoir.

Samantha Geimer, now 47, says in a statement released by publisher Atria Books: "I offer my story now without rage, but with purpose — to share a tale that in its detail will reclaim my identity."

Polanski, 79, is restricted by an Interpol warrant in effect in 188 countries, but he moves freely between Switzerland and France.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sex beast Sandusky gets 30 years; will end his life in jail

Reviled ex-football icon Jerry Sandusky was sentenced Tuesday to at least 30 years in prison — effectively a life sentence.

But he was defiant to the end in the child sexual abuse scandal that brought shame to Penn State.

"In my heart I know I did not do these … disgusting acts," he told a Pennsylvania court.

He also gave a rambling statement in which he talked about his life in prison and the pain of being away from his family.

"I've forgiven, I've been forgiven," he said.

"I've comforted others, I've been comforted. I've been kissed by dogs, I've been bit by dogs. I've conformed, I've also been different. I've been me. I've been loved, I've been hated."

Three victims spoke, often fighting back tears. One looked Sandusky in the eyes at times. Two of the men exchanged a long embrace after court was adjourned.

The 68-year-old former Penn State assistant coach was found guilty in June of 45 counts of child sexual abuse, convicted of molesting 10 boys over a 15-year period.

Eight of the boys he was found guilty of molesting described a range of abuse that included fondling, oral sex and anal intercourse.

A star witness, former graduate assistant Mike McQueary, testified he saw Sandusky raping a boy in a locker-room shower.

Sandusky plans to appeal.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jerry Sandusky leaves court after sentencing. MATT ROURKE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Impact in Canada

The Jerry Sandusky case has sent ripples of revulsion into Canada.

- The James scandal. Two of former junior hockey coach Graham James's sexual abuse victims say they would like Canada to follow the U.S. in handing out harsh sentences to sexual predators.
- Fleury. Former Calgary Flames forward Theo Fleury says it's important to send a message that child sexual abuse is not taken lightly. He blames the federal government for a lack of leadership.
- Kennedy. Sheldon Kennedy would like tougher sentences as well. But he says longer jail terms are not the only answer. Canada, he says, is on the right track by educating the public.

Trade tensions. Rivalry with China plays into U.S. election

Eager to expand in the United States, China's biggest technology companies face an America anxious about threats to jobs and national security.

The latest blow: A U.S. report that says telecom equipment makers Huawei Technologies Inc. and ZTE Corp. are potential security threats that Americans should avoid doing business with.

The report, coming amid an American presidential race in which trade tensions with Beijing are a prominent issue, highlights conflicting U.S. sentiments toward China, an important trading partner but a potential strategic rival. U.S. companies see China as both a crucial growth market and a source of competition and industrial spying.

"A lot of people in America are worried about a diminishing role in the world and China being the prime beneficiary and potentially one day moving into that top slot," said Charles Maynard, senior managing director of Business Development Asia, which advises companies on acquisitions. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Entrepreneurship

Boomers set on startups: Poll

A new survey from TD Canada Trust suggests baby boomers have one more career move in them before they retire — they want to run their own business first. The survey found 54 per cent of boomers polled have or are considering starting a firm, whether it's consulting, buying into a franchise or operating a specialty firm. THE CANADIAN PRESS

BB10 deliveries

RIM shares fall on analyst's report

Research In Motion shares fell 5.5 per cent after an analyst said the next generation of BlackBerrys won't hit shelves until March. Jeffries and Co. analyst Peter Misek told business TV channel BNN that timing would delay any potential licensing deals. Some observers had anticipated a January or February release. THE CANADIAN PRESS

IMF forecasts weaker growth for world economy

Japanese Minister for Reconstruction Tasuo Hirano speaks during the opening of the Sendai Dialogue, a special event on managing disaster risk that is being held in Sendai, Japan, ahead of the annual meetings of the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank Group. KOJI SASAHARA/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sluggishness spreads.
Quarterly update sees malaise expanding to more dynamic emerging economies

Plagued by uncertainty and fresh setbacks, the world economy has weakened further and will grow more slowly over the next year, the International Monetary Fund says in its latest forecast.

Advanced economies are risking recession while the economic malaise is spreading to more dynamic emerging economies such as China, the international lending organization says in a quarterly update of its World Economic Outlook.

The IMF forecasts that the world economy will expand 3.3 per cent this year, down from its estimate of 3.5 per cent growth issued in July. Its forecast for growth in 2013 is 3.6 per cent, down from 3.9 per cent three months ago and 4.1 per cent in April.

For the U.S., the IMF raised its growth forecast slightly, to 2.2 per cent this year from two per cent in July. For 2013, it expects U.S. growth of 2.1 per cent, down from 2.3 per cent.

The IMF projected growth in Canada this year of 1.9 per cent, improving slightly to two per cent in 2013. That compared with the July forecast that saw growth at 2.1 per cent for 2012 and 2.2 per cent for 2013. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Market Minute

- DOLLAR 102.19 ¢ (+0.03¢)
- TSX 12,273.57 (-145.42)
- OIL $92.39 US (+$3.06)
- GOLD $1,765 US (-$10.70)

Natural gas: $3.47 (+6.4¢)
Dow Jones: 13,473.53 (-110.12)

REGINA MUNICIPAL/SCHOOL BOARD ELECTION
OCTOBER 24, 2012

THIS ELECTION, VOTE EARLY.

Cast your ballot on your way to work or while running errands. Advance Polls will be operating at these convenient locations throughout Regina:

- City Hall, October 10–12 (drive-thru also available)
- SGI Head Office Tower, October 10
- Select Malls, October 17–20

View poll locations and hours online.

For all the information you need this election, call 777-7000 or visit Regina.ca

Scan for more information

Take a FEW MINUTES to shape the next FOUR YEARS

OFFICE MANAGER

Reporting to the Office & Sales Administration Manager, Western Canada, the right candidate will carry out a range of administrative and operational tasks related to the daily operations of the business in the Metro Regina operation. As well as provide operational and executive support to the Sales/General Manager, Metro Regina and any additional administrative support as directed.

PRIMARY RESPONSIBILITIES:

- Responsible for all administrative projects as assigned
- Responsible for the general daily office operations
- Assist in maintenance and control of the office budget
- General reception duties and Customer service requests
- Oversee couriers and mail; both incoming and outgoing
- Supervise the implementation of new office systems from various shared service departments
- Review and update health and safety policies; coordinate with JHSC
- Responsible for maintaining accurate staff lists and directories
- Answering telephones, call screening and forwarding
- Deal with complex queries and complaints, by email, phone and in person
- Advertising Sales Bookings using a computer
- Direct Sales Support
- Completion of numerous reports daily, weekly, and monthly, pertaining to the sales team

REQUIREMENTS OF THE POSITION:

- 2-3 years of demonstrated success in a similar role
- Great organizational and time management skills
- Outstanding communication skills
- Intermediate knowledge of Microsoft Office - Word, Excel & Outlook
- Attention to details and thoroughness in the execution of tasks
- Must be a team player with a great, and we mean great, sense of humor

Interested individuals who possess the skills described above are requested to submit their resume and cover letter via email to hr@metronews.ca no later than October 10, 2012. PLEASE QUOTE: "Office Manager - Regina" in the subject line. All submissions will be treated as confidential.

metro

IT'S A GOURD THING THERE'S PUMPKIN PIE

JUST SAYIN'
Paul Sullivan
metronews.ca

Who says we're not making progress?

My first journalistic assignment, back in 1812, was to head out to the pumpkin patch and interview some farmer who was trying to grow the world's largest pumpkin.

It was some pumpkin, all right. About 900 pounds. That's a lot of pie.

He was getting ready to haul it to the World's Largest Pumpkin Olympics, or something like that. Sadly, he was defeated by his arch rival who managed to coax an extra few pounds out of his giant gourd.

Since then, the record has been eclipsed annually, and this year, the world-record pumpkin passed the magic one-ton barrier (imperial measurement, please; these guys are traditionalists), as the pride and joy of Rhode Island farmer Ron Wallace weighed in at 2,009 pounds.

That's more than twice as much pie.

While pumpkin pundits debate the upper limit and wonder if there is one, it's time to stand back and ask the obvious question: Who cares?

Well, this is not a question you ask around the HQ of the World Pumpkin Confederation or the Yugoslav Gourd Lovers Society, and certainly not at the 1100 Club, populated exclusively by guys who have broken the 1,100-pound barrier.

Frankly, only its grower could love a giant pumpkin. After all, it just sits there, spilling over the scale like Jabba the Hut. It bears no resemblance to those satisfying symmetrical squashes that you cluster across your doorstep. Those are grown by interior designers with bow ties. Hipster pumpkins.

No, growing a one-ton pumpkin is horticultural brute force. You can literally watch them getting larger: 40-50 pounds a day during peak growing season. It takes up to 160 days to grow one of these babies, so you have to start them indoors. And in the fall, when the threat of early frost increases, you'll spend your nights in the patch with your great pumpkin, trying to prevent a pumpkin freezie. Like Linus, from Peanuts.

Everything has to be just so: soil, fertilizer, water, disease and pest control, not to mention the correct amount of shade and sunlight.

Of course, Ron Wallace, who also grew the world's biggest in 2006 (a 1,502-pounder), keeps his technique top-secret, which leads you to wonder if Ron's growing his pumpkins around a giant lead weight.

There's more at stake here than mere bragging rights around the Hot Stove League. Wallace has wrested the world title away from Canadians Jim and Kelsey Bryson from Ormstown, Que., who grew an 1,818.5-pounder in 2011.

For one brief shining moment, Canada and giant pumpkins were synonymous.

And, if we adjust the pH balance and the calcium content, 2013 pounds in 2013 is in our grasp! Be like Linus and believe. And keep your fork, because whatever else happens, there will be pie.

Ron Wallace, of Rhode Island, celebrates after tipping the scales with his 2,009-pound record-breaking pumpkin during the New England Giant Pumpkin Weigh-Off at the Topsfield Fair in Topsfield, Mass., Friday, Sept. 28.

PAUL BILODEAU/THE EAGLE-TRIBUNE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lunch — 100 million years ago

OREGON STATE UNIVERSITY

A stone's throw away

Ancient spider attack fossil found

Scientists have discovered an amazing prehistoric fossil of a spider about to devour a wasp caught in its web.

The preserved event took place in the Hukawng Valley of Myanmar in the Early Cretaceous period between 97-110 million years ago, a time when almost certainly dinosaurs were roaming nearby, scientists say.

METRO

Expert's viewpoint

"This was the wasp's worst nightmare. The wasp was watching the spider just as it was about to be attacked, when tree resin flowed over and captured both of them."

George Poinar, Jr.
Oregon State University entomologist

Amber fossilizes

How tree resin captures the past

The tree resin that forms amber is renowned for its ability to flow over flora and fauna, preserving them in near perfection before it later transforms into a semi-precious stone.

At least 15 unbroken strands of spider silk run through the amber piece, and on some of these the wasp was trapped. This is the first fossil ever discovered of a spider attack, scientists note.

METRO

Long, long ago

100

million years ago is the approximate time when this spider-wasp encounter occurred. Spiders are ancient invertebrates that researchers believe date back some 200 million years, but the oldest fossil evidence ever found of a spider web is only about 130 million years old. A report about the discovery by Poinar and his team appears in the October edition of journal Historical Biology.

Metropolitan Panel

Register at metropolitanpanel.ca and take the quick poll

Do you think U.S. presidential contender Mitt Romney will see another debate bump?

Twitter

@pipewrench80:
Let the snow fall in #yqr

@derekyan_15:
Council voting on cp land purchase. Lets get it done and get rid of the trains during rush hour! #yqr #yqrvotes

@MelissaBrie:
Advanced polling stations are accessible Wed-Fri, 7 a.m.-6 p.m. at City Hall, this week. Make your vote count! (ID is required) #yqrvotes my 4y old will not stop talking about the #riders today. She even told her teacher about her favorite players Holy Sheets and Mr. Durant.

@thejenni:

@MZaplitny:
Broadcast of 13th man documentary expunges all bad mojo left from 2009 cup. Riders win from here on!

metro

President Bill McDonald • Vice-President & Group Publisher, Metro Western Canada Steve Shrout • Editor-in-Chief Charlotte Empey • Deputy Editor Fernando Carneiro • National Deputy Editor, Digital Quin Parker • Managing Editor, Regina Tara Campbell • Managing Editor, News & Business Amber Shortt • Managing Editor, Life & Entertainment Dean Lisk • Vice-President, Sales Quin Millar • Sales Manager Kim Kintzle • Distribution Manager: Darryl Hobbins • Vice-President, Business Ventures Tracy Day • Vice-President, Creative Jeff Smith • Vice-President, Marketing & Interactive Jodi Brown, Vice-President, Finance Phil Jameson METRO REGINA • Telephone: 306-584-2025 • Toll free: 1-877-895-7194 • Fax: 1-888-243-9726 • Advertising: adinforegina@metronews.ca • Distribution: regina_distribution@metronews.ca • News tips: regina@metronews.ca • Letters to the Editor: reginaletters@metronews.ca

SCENE 2

Who made the best bond?

"I think it's got to be Connery ... because as soon as I was of that age, he was really starting as well. And I just identify Connery with that role. It's always been a great piece of escapism."

Bryan Cranston, star of Breaking Bad.

"I think Casino Royale was really excellent, and I think Daniel is a brilliant Bond, wonderful. A Bond for now, in our world. He's wonderful."

Ralph Fiennes, star of the new Bond flick Skyfall.

More online

- Visit metronews.ca for more James Bond coverage, including a look at the newest film, Skyfall.

The top 12 Bond girls

There's 56 Bond girls out there (give or take), and we've ranked the sexiest. Sexist? Hey, so are the films.

METRO WORLD NEWS

1. Honey Ryder

Ursula Andress, Dr. No

The Swiss miss set the standard for all future Bond girls: she wore a bikini and carried a knife.

2. Pussy Galore

Honor Blackman, Goldfinger

We concur with Bond, who says, when told her name, "I must be dreaming."

3. Xenia Onatopp

Famke Janssen, GoldenEye

She crushes an old man during sex. She hijacks a helicopter. She puts the fatal in femme fatale.

4. MayDay

Grace Jones, A View to a Kill

Bond was an equal opportunity ladies man, and wasn't scared off by the statuesque Jones.

5. Mary Goodnight

Britt Ekland, The Man with the Golden Gun

The Swedish bombshell became famous for being with two men: Bond, and her husband, Peter Sellers.

6. Helga Brandt

Karin Dor, You Only Live Twice

She ties Bond down to a chair, and threatens him with some makeshift plastic surgery, holding a knife. Then she kisses him. Deeply. Many times.

7. Solitaire

Jane Seymour, Live and Let Die

The first psychic Bond girl? Surely that's worth something.

8. Jinx

Halle Berry, Die Another Day

An Oscar-winning Bond girl: Was that a first? Nope. See number 12.

9. Vesper Lynd

Eva Green, Casino Royale

A modern-day love interest for modern times. Her back-and-forth with Bond on a train has more sparks than any bedroom scene.

10. Magda

Kristina Wayborn, Octopussy

She has an octopus tattoo in a film called Octopussy. How could we not include her?

11. Anya Amasova

Barbara Bach, The Spy Who Loved Me

This New Yorker called Bond a "chauvinist pig who uses girls to shield him against bullets."

12. Domino Petachi

Kim Basinger. Never Say Never Again

She's not the only Bond girl to have an Oscar but she is the blondest.

Escape thrillers more than escapism

New movie. Ben Affleck's Argo joins a long list of movies that make the big breakout sequence their main thrust

IN FOCUS
Richard Crouse
scene@metronews.ca

It's no spoiler to tell you the action in Argo, the new thriller starring and directed by Ben Affleck, centres around a daring escape. Based on the real life covert operation to free six American diplomats after the seizure of their embassy in Tehran, the movie showcases the cooperation between Canadian diplomat Ken Taylor and the CIA that led to the film's exciting climax.

Even if you already know how the movie ends — and in this case it's a matter of public record — nothing will keep you on the edge of your seat quite like a daring escape.

The big screen version of The Fugitive, starring Harrison Ford as Richard Kimble, a wrongly accused man on the lam from the law, is essentially one big escape sequence. The most famous is the crash between Kimble's prison transport van and a freight train. To film the scene where the wanted man makes his way out of the twisted wreck they actually crashed a van into a train, although the image of Ford jumping from the ruin was added later.

Ben Affleck stars as Tony Mendez in the escape flick Argo. HANDOUT

Not surprisingly, some of the best escape movies tip their hand by including the word escape in the title.

The Great Escape sees Steve McQueen lead a cast of Second World War allied POWs who arrange a mass escape from a German camp. Motorcycle enthusiast McQueen refused to sign on to do the movie until a cycle chase was included in the script. The director agreed, and when the scene was shot even allowed McQueen to ride along as a German soldier. In the final, edited sequence McQueen, in disguise, is seen chasing after himself.

Based on a true story, Escape from Alcatraz starred Clint Eastwood as one-third of a team who staged the only successful escape from the island prison. Many of the dangerous looking stunts in the film were as risky as they looked. Director Don Siegel insisted the actors do their own stunts, but twice feared his stars had been lost to the strong currents of San Francisco Bay.

Finally, in Escape from New York, the city is transformed into a giant maximum-security prison. The twist is one of the prisoners is hired, after the President's plane crashes, to get the Commander-In-Chief out safely. In this one The Great Escape alum Donald Pleasence plays the president, although it's never explained why the U.S. leader has an English accent.

METRO DISH

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Led Zeppelin refuse to answer reunion questions

THE WORD
Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

Don't ask Led Zeppelin if they're getting the band back together.

Numerous reporters tried yesterday at a press conference promoting the release of their concert film, Celebration Day, but the British rock gods dodged and weaved. "We've been thinking about all sorts of things. But we can't remember what we were thinking about," quipped lead singer Robert Plant. John Paul Jones, Jimmy Page and John Bonham's son, Jason Bonham, who played drums on the band's one-off 2007 tribute concert for friend and Atlantic Records founder Ahmet Ertegun, were equally mute on the subject (actually, Bonham never commented one way or another on the topic; he just seemed stoked to be there).

"At this time five years ago we were rehearsing to get to the O2. If you think about the time it gets something like that to get together, it seems unlikely," said Page. He continued: "We were so happy we were getting it right and taking it beyond what we thought we were about that night. To do that four nights a week is a different thing entirely."

But they never said never.

So there is still hope for all you Zepp fans out there. And if you do either catch them live or see the film, keep an eye open for the band's facial expressions. "We used to call ourselves 'The Band of Nods' because if you missed a cue you would nod — that had nothing to do with opiates," said Plant. "And now, we've turned into 'The Band of Middle Aged Grins.'"

Twitter

@taylorswift13
I feel like I'd be more understood if people knew 'I Don't Want to Miss a Thing' by Aerosmith is how most of my emotions sound in my head.

@wossy
Good morning ! I am not feeling well. But I can stay indoors all day and drink tea. So there's the silver lining right there.

@justinbieber
i care

@Joan_Rivers
The good news is that self-driving cars are now legal in California. The bad news is that so are the ones driven by Lindsay Lohan.

Ben Affleck

Ben Affleck not the hit-and-run type

Ben Affleck isn't just a talented actor and director, he's also a responsible citizen. While running errands in Santa Monica recently, the Argo star sideswiped a parked car, knocking off its side mirror, according to Hollyscoop. But unlike some Hollywood starlets we could name, Affleck did the right thing by stopping and leaving a note on the car's windshield. The note read, "Hi, knocked off your mirror! Very sorry! Will cover everything — Ben," followed by his contact information.

Jennifer Aniston

Aniston showing off giant gem on ring finger

Jennifer Aniston is set to marry fiancé Justin Theroux — and she's got the massive engagement ring to prove it.

During a recent afternoon out with Theroux in Santa Fe, N.M. — where Aniston is filming We're the Millers — the actress showed off a giant gem on her ring finger, according to Us Weekly. But while the ring may be plenty flashy, don't expect the wedding itself to be, as sources say Aniston is planning a "destination wedding" with close friends, "kind of like eloping with a few friends. There will be the feeling of a vacation, since that's their favourite thing to do."

Drink wine in upstate N.Y.

The Finger Lakes region is a lesser-known haven for grape lovers

NOLAN GAWRON
Metro World News

In the Finger Lakes region of upstate New York, there's a growing excitement — literally. Grapes! Wine grapes, to be more specific. The sloping hillsides, lake breezes and a steady summer sun have always provided the picturesque Finger Lakes region with a healthy grape-growing climate. But until recently, the land was primarily used to grow local Concord grapes that were sold to juice companies.

In recent years, younger generations have taken over the family farms and begun experimenting with wine grape varietals. While the yield can be more profitable, the arduous and artistic process is all the more intensive and comes with a higher risk factor. But with continued growth and a respected product that has gained praise and earned prizes all over the world, the shift seems to be working. Now with 109 wineries, the Finger Lakes have helped make New York the third largest wine producer in America.

Even though the area is known for its Cabernet francs, chardonnays, pinot noirs and ice wines, it's riesling that reigns supreme. With a climate similar to its German origins, the varietal has found a second home here. Ranging from dry to sweet, each vineyard in the area produces at least one style of Riesling — some make several — and many have won worldwide Gold Medal honours.

Soak up the wine and the scenery in the Finger Lakes region. ALLEN MCGREGOR/FLICKR

Is Finger Lakes the next Napa Valley? VISIT-FINGERLAKES/FLICKR

Camaraderie over competition

With a wine trail marked by road signs, vineyard tours and tasting rooms, tourism in the Finger Lakes is increasing. And with several wineries adding inns and high-end restaurants to their properties, many are calling the Finger Lakes the next Napa Valley. Vineyard owners in the area, however, are quick to point out a monumental difference — a unified sense of community. Here it's camaraderie, not competition, since in this region the vineyard owner is often the farmer, the marketer, the salesman and sometimes even the deliveryman. "If someone needs a forklift, we let them borrow ours," says Ted Marks, proprietor of Atwater Vineyards. "And they would do the same for us. People come from all over the world to work here and can't believe that we want to help each other succeed. We do what we do well. And we do it without pretension."

Segway tours are becoming a popular activity at resorts. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The perfect getaway: Golf, spa treatments ... and Segway tours?

Travel trend. The often-mocked vehicle of choice for mall cops has found an unlikely surge in popularity at vacation spots

Some couples celebrate their anniversary with a horse-drawn carriage ride. Others rent a romantic cabin in the woods. A few even jet off to Las Vegas and renew their vows in front of Elvis.

Lori Kelly and her husband Gene recently marked their second anniversary by touring the woods of the Omni Bedford Springs Resort & Spa in Bedford, Penn. on a Segway.

"It was absolutely fantastic. It is really the ultimately unique experience especially for people my age," said Kelly, 59. Her husband is 64. "It gives you the flavour of adventure with very little threat of injury."

The Segway, first introduced a decade ago as an alternative mode of personal transportation, is getting a new life at a growing number of resorts around the world. For those not familiar with the two-wheeled electric vehicle, it works like this: Lean forward to move forward. Lean backward to go in reverse. Move the handlebars, and it turns left or right.

The device never quite took off as an everyday way to get around, but it has found a niche replacing city walking tours and helping security guards patrol local shopping malls. And now hotels with sprawling grounds are finding the Segway to be a great way to show guests around their properties. Plus, the devices are still quirky enough to be an attraction in their own right.

"You don't need any special skills to navigate around on it," said Kelly, the executive director of the American Red Cross in West Virginia.

She and her husband travelled in mid-September from their home in Shepherdstown, W.Va. to Pennsylvania resort for a two-night getaway. They shopped, sat by the hotel's fire pits, played horseshoes and had a romantic anniversary dinner.

But what really made the trip unique was the 90-minute, off-road Segway tour for $90.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

What's in a Segway tour?

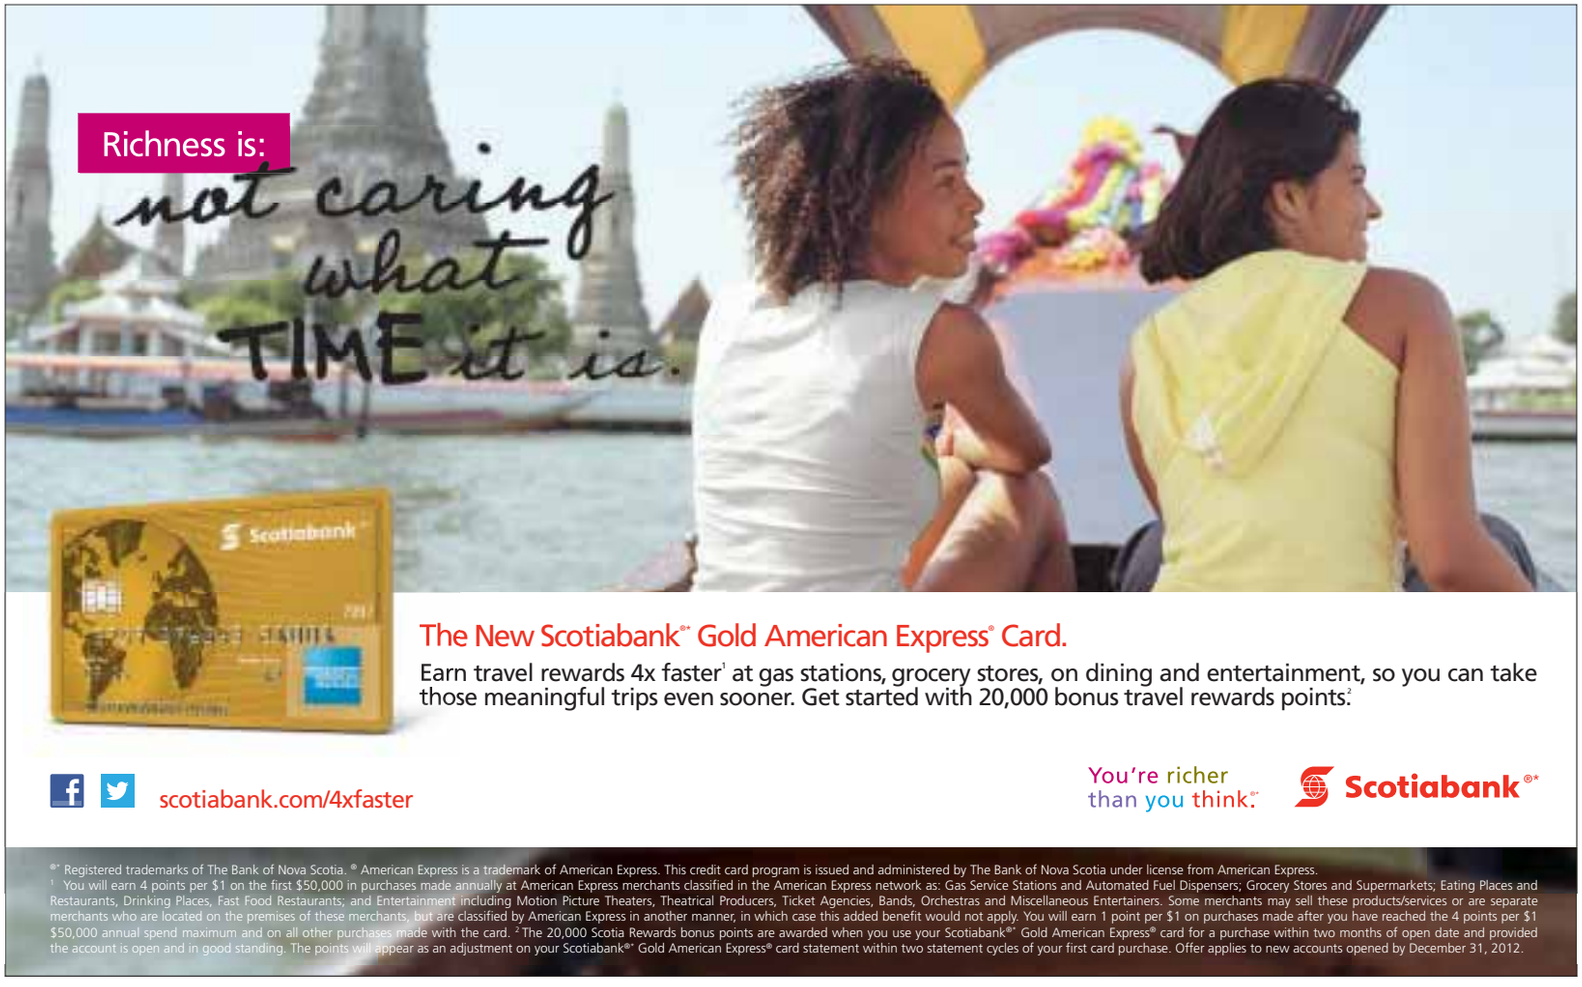
- Cost. Prices generally range from $60 to $125 per person.
- Requirements. Several resorts have minimum age requirements and only allow guests between a certain weight, generally 100 to 260 pounds.



Richness is:
not caring
what
TIME it is.
Scotiabank
The New Scotiabank®* Gold American Express® Card.
Earn travel rewards 4x faster[1] at gas stations, grocery stores, on dining and entertainment, so you can take those meaningful trips even sooner. Get started with 20,000 bonus travel rewards points.[2]
scotiabank.com/4xfaster
You're richer than you think.®*
Scotiabank®*
®* Registered trademarks of The Bank of Nova Scotia. ® American Express is a trademark of American Express. This credit card program is issued and administered by The Bank of Nova Scotia under license from American Express.
[1] You will earn 4 points per $1 on the first $50,000 in purchases made annually at American Express merchants classified in the American Express network as: Gas Service Stations and Automated Fuel Dispensers; Grocery Stores and Supermarkets; Eating Places and Restaurants, Drinking Places, Fast Food Restaurants; and Entertainment including Motion Picture Theaters, Theatrical Producers, Ticket Agencies, Bands, Orchestras and Miscellaneous Entertainers. Some merchants may sell these products/services or are separate merchants who are located on the premises of these merchants, but are classified by American Express in another manner, in which case this added benefit would not apply. You will earn 1 point per $1 on purchases made after you have reached the 4 points per $1 $50,000 annual spend maximum and on all other purchases made with the card. [2] The 20,000 Scotia Rewards bonus points are awarded when you use your Scotiabank®* Gold American Express® card for a purchase within two months of open date and provided the account is open and in good standing. The points will appear as an adjustment on your Scotiabank®* Gold American Express® card statement within two statement cycles of your first card purchase. Offer applies to new accounts opened by December 31, 2012.

JUPITERIMAGES/POLKA DOT/THINKSTOCK

DAVID DE LOSSY/PHOTODISC/THINKSTOCK

PET LOGIC

NINE IMPORTANT CONSIDERATIONS TO PONDER BEFORE YOU DECIDE TO ADOPT A PET

"When you get a pet, it's like you are inviting a new member into your family," says Michael Sullivan, executive director, Humane Society of Canada. Here are nine important considerations before your family makes the commitment.

1 COST. According to Sullivan, a cat or dog costs on average $1,500 per year (for the initial spay or neuter, vaccinations, food and other health costs). Exotic pets may be inexpensive but their ongoing needs will add up, too.

2 LIFE SPAN. Be aware that a cat can live up to 20 years, explains Dr. Jean Gauvin, a small animal practitioner in Lachine, Que., and vice-president of the Canadian Veterinary Medical Association, while a small dog can live about 12 years, a parrot more than 30, a rabbit 12, and a hamster may live four years.

3 SCHEDULE. Dogs, especially puppies, require a lot of your time for training and daily walks. Cats are easier because they don't need training outside of litter training. Most exotic pets (gerbils, reptiles, fish, and birds) will need daily care.

4 LIFESTYLE. If you are active, an active dog breed makes sense. But what will you do if you are someone who travels a lot? Gauvin says for shorter jaunts, a cat and exotic animal may be easier to leave or have looked after.

5 FUR. If someone in the family is allergic, consider a poodle or other non-shedding dog, says Gauvin. Or consider a lizard or snake.

6 SPACE. A small dog or cat might be best suited for a condominium or apartment while a Great Dane might better suit a home in the country. Exotic pet cages and aquariums will need a dedicated place in your home, too.

GETTING YOUR PET

If you don't purchase a full bred animal from a reputable breeder, adopt an animal from a shelter, rescue group, humane society or local pound.

7 FOOD. Sixty per cent of what you spend on a dog will be for food. Consider that a rabbit needs fresh vegetables while a cat is happy with canned food. Some exotic pets need special food — snakes eat mice while lizards love crickets.

8 EXPERIENCE. If this is your first pet, do your research, says Sullivan. Some dog breeds are easier to manage than others. For example, border collies need to be kept busy while a Shih Tzu doesn't. Cats are more self sufficient, says Sullivan. Most birds need time out of their cages.

9 AGE. If you get a puppy or kitten, you will have more work to do in the first year. A young adult dog or cat is less work — and you are saving an animal life.

EXOTIC PETS REQUIRE EXTRA CARE

Whether it's tropical fish, parakeets, parrots, chinchillas, ferrets, turtles, snakes or lizards, exotic pets go in and out of fashion ... and that's definitely not the reason to get one.

Consider that:

• These animals have been removed from the wild and most do not do well as pets, according to the Sir James Dunn Animal Welfare Centre, University of Prince Edward Island. Iguanas, for example, are one of the most frequently purchased exotic pet, and the centre reports that it's thought that most die within the first year of ownership.

• The animal itself may not cost much, but food, cages, etc., will add up. Michael Sullivan, executive director, Humane Society of Canada, once paid $50 to rescue a rabbit. After he bought the hutch, litter box and other paraphernalia, he spent closer to $500.

• These animals are going to grow — and you need to be prepared for that. For example, a turtle will start out fitting in the palm of your hand and grow to the size of a dinner plate.

STILL WANT AN EXOTIC PET?

Sir James Dunn Animal Welfare Centre recommends that you:

• Ask a lot of questions — and check with provincial department of fisheries and wildlife to find out if the pet is legal, what the animal's needs are, where to find a vet that has expertise to care for the animal and any dangers. Remember, many may carry parasites or infections that can be transmitted. Turtles, snakes and iguanas may carry salmonella.

• Find a reputable supplier — be sure to find out how long they have worked with the species, ensure that the animal has been bred in captivity and that the supplier has necessary permits. Never buy over the Internet because you can't assess health and environment.

• Alternatively, instead of owning an exotic pet, Kim Elmslie at the Canadian Federation of Humane Societies, suggests supporting an animal sanctuary. "If you have money and a love for exotic animals, you can put it towards an endowment to help build larger cages at the sanctuary."

ISTOCKPHOTO/THINKSTOCK

COWTOWN: A PET OWNER'S DREAM

Regina's longest-serving pet superstore is also the largest in the province. Cowtown devotes more than 10,000 square feet of floor space to food and supplies for cats and dogs, and another 4,000 square feet to supplies for agricultural animals, such as cows, pigs and horses.

"We take pride on having a large selection, from economy to top-quality brands," says Jason Honeysett, manager of Cowtown's pet division. "Our business is based on providing value, selection and service to customers."

The store's frequent-feeder program reflects this approach. Many manufacturers offer regular discounts, coupons and customer-loyalty bonuses. Cowtown tracks customers' purchases and keeps them informed of potentially large savings.

To ensure consistently excellent service, all members of the store's staff undergo extensive in-house training and attend product-knowledge sessions delivered by manufacturers. This is particularly important when it comes to choosing the best food and supplements.

"There are more products on the market than ever before that can help pets live long, healthy lives," says Honeysett. "And pets' dietary needs change significantly as they age, so it's really important to provide pet owners with the information they need to make the right choice."

Along with more than 30 brands of dog and cat food, Cowtown also carries an incredible selection of supplies and equipment: From treats, toys and games, to furniture, electronics and training and grooming aids. There are doghouses, bark collars and electronic fence systems, along with rugged cat posts and a full range of pet clothing.

Given the store's many advantages, it is no wonder that Cowtown draws customers from across the province.

Your complete pet department store!

PETS & SUPPLIES LTD.

1303 Scarth St. 569-9070
The Store For Pets & Pet People
Locally Owned and Operated
Open 7 Days a Week

R.H.S. Kittens, Birds, Reptiles, Small Animals, Tropical & Marine Fish

COWTOWN

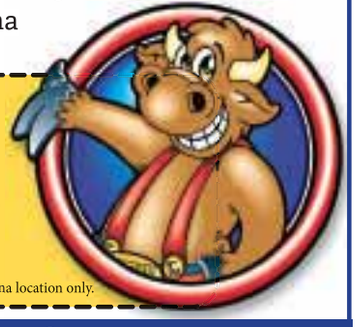
Largest selection of pet supplies in southern Saskatchewan!

- 10,000 sq ft of pet supplies
- 25 brands of dog and cat food
- Lots of Canadian products, food & treats
- Knowledgeable staff
- Great customer service
- Special orders
- Competitive prices

We have something to suit every budget – stop in today!

Visit Coco, our LIVE crocodile!

745 Park Street, Regina
1-306-721-2727



Present this coupon and receive
$10 OFF
your purchases of dog treats and toys with the purchase of $20 or more of dog treats and toys.
One coupon per customer please. Expires October 24, 2012. Regina location only.

COWTOWN – More then just a pet store!

Student Voice

Motivate yourself to make a mark

Samantha Murphy
Student
Bachelor of Commerce (Co-op) in Marketing
Memorial University of Newfoundland
TalentEgg.ca

The Bachelor of Commerce (Co-op) program at Memorial University of Newfoundland requires that students must complete three work terms or internships at specified times during the five-year program. Memorial offers a database of jobs available to students, but for the most part they cater to either Accounting or Human Resource students that hope to stay within the province for work. I, however, am a marketing student with dreams to leave Newfoundland and work in the marketing industry in a more urban environment.

This led me to scour the internet as well as contact many of the connections I have made in the industry both in and out of the province. From there, I applied to many companies, from large corporations to small businesses. Cover letters and resumés were seemingly ineffective, especially via the Internet with no ability to meet face-to-face.

This led me to spend an entire day filming myself on my laptop making a somewhat quirky but still informative video about my skills and passion for marketing in the hopes of standing out among thousands of applicants to a large, well known corporation. I got an interview! This was a huge accomplishment and, although I did not get the job, it was the confirmation I needed that I had at least some of what it took to survive in this industry.

After that I had a friend who had some graphic art skills create a resumé that would be delivered in a unique format to help stand out among the crowd. Sadly, no interview.

Finally I was contacted by a huge marketing agency that seemed really interested but only did unpaid internships. I almost packed up and moved halfway across the country for an unpaid position, but after the intervention of my grandmother I decided I would contact them as a new grad.

Eventually I ended up with a position here in the province that I really like but still have my eyes set on a bigger city with bigger opportunities.

What I'm doing now

I graduate in April 2013 and will begin my job hunt soon! I'm starting to brainstorm some creative ideas so that I can get myself out in the industry and be recognized.

My recommendations

As much as I would like to say that I did not receive as much help or guidance as I wanted from employers, career centres and schools, it is really up to me to ensure I am portraying myself in a way that makes employers need to meet with me. Having a degree is not enough anymore — contributing in any way you can to the field you hope to end up in is crucial. I have found that making connections is also a key factor in getting jobs whether it be a recommendation or someone to help mentor you.

TALENTEGG.CA, CANADA'S LEADING JOB SITE AND ONLINE CAREER RESOURCE FOR STUDENTS AND NEW GRADUATES, WANTS TO HEAR YOUR STUDENT VOICE. SHARE IT AT TALENTEGG.CA.

Eat healthy and delight your tastebuds all at once

Whole Grain Spaghetti with Spicy Lamb Sauce

This recipe serves four. NEWS CANADA

Eating a balanced diet is one of the most important factors in achieving a healthy lifestyle. Fortunately, being health-conscious doesn't mean you have to give up the dishes you love.

Canadian chef Stefano Faita is a firm believer in healthy eating, and often relies on his Italian roots for recipe inspiration.

"There is a ton of healthy whole grain pasta options out in the market," he says.

Here he pairs whole grain spaghetti with spicy lamb sauce.

Ingredients

- 50 ml (1/4 cup) extra virgin olive oil
- 2 cloves garlic, chopped
- 1 sprig rosemary, finely chopped
- 1 ml (1/4 tsp) red pepper flakes (or to taste)
- 300 g (10 oz) ground lamb
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) white wine
- 1 can (540 ml/ 19 oz) diced tomatoes
- Salt, to taste
- 1 box (375 g) Barilla whole grain spaghetti
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) butter
- 175 ml (3/4 cup) grated Pecorino Romano cheese

1. In a large skillet over medium heat, heat olive oil. Add the garlic, rosemary and red pepper flakes, sautéing until garlic turns slightly yellow. Add ground lamb; cook until well browned.

2. Stir in wine and cook for about 1 minute. Add tomatoes with juice and 3/4 cup (175 ml) water; season with salt. Simmer until liquid has evaporated and sauce is thickened. Cover and keep hot.

3. Meanwhile, cook spaghetti according to package directions. Drain and toss with sauce.

4. Stir in butter and cheese before serving.

NEWS CANADA/ BARILLA.CA

Mushroom Fettuccine. Use different pestos

Instead of basil pesto, try using sun-dried tomato or mint pesto for variety in this quick dish.

1. Cook fettuccine according to package directions.

2. In skillet, heat oil over medium heat. Sauté mushrooms and onions 5 minutes or until lightly browned. Reduce heat and stir in garlic, pesto and salt; heat just until warm.

3. Add drained hot pasta and toss to coat well; taste and add a little more salt if not garnishing with Parmesan. Serve hot or at room temperature. Garnish with cheese, if desired, and pine nuts. THE CANADIAN PRESS/ MUSHROOMS CANADA, MUSHROOMS.CA

Ingredients

- 375 g (12 oz) dry fettuccine, cooked and drained
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) olive oil
- 500 g (1 lb) sliced mushrooms
- 250 ml (1 cup) chopped red onion
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) prepared basil pesto sauce
- 1 ml (1/4 tsp) salt
- Grated Parmesan cheese (optional)
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) toasted pine nuts

JB's Sausage Supplies
PARK STREET
LIQUIDATION CENTRE
WHISKEY NIGHT CLUB
JB SAUSAGE
1025 Park St. • 359-6500
www.JBSausageSupplies.com
SASKATCHEWAN'S LARGEST SELECTION OF PURE SPICES & SAUSAGE MAKING SUPPLIES
Knowlegeable staff to assist you in all aspects of meat preparation and equipment usage.
20% OFF Present this Coupon or mention Metro for an in-store Discount of 20% off on Spices & Seasonings.
Store Hours: Mon. to Fri. 8am - 5pm · Starting Oct. 13th til Dec. 22, Open Sat. 10am - 2pm

Hockey

Hasek's hope for NHL return fading

Dominik Hasek appears to be done with hockey after giving up hope of another return to the NHL.

The 47-year-old goalie resumed training ahead of this season hoping to get picked up by an NHL club, but told Czech daily Sport on Tuesday that it is "very unlikely" he would play again after no team offered him a contract amid the current lockout.

Hasek was twice named the NHL's MVP, and took home the Vezina Trophy six times. He announced his retirement in 2002 after winning his first Stanley Cup with the Detroit Red Wings, but came back and then retired from the NHL again in 2008.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dominik Hasek speaks on Sept. 5 in Pardubice, Czech Republic. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

Tennis

Raonic opens strong in Shanghai

Canada's Milos Raonic reached the second round of the Shanghai Masters, beating Australian qualifier Marinko Matosevic 7-6 (4), 6-3 on Tuesday.

The 12th seed from Thornhill, Ont., fired 14 aces past Matosevic and won the match in one hour 28 minutes. Raonic will face former Grand Slam finalist Marcos Baghdatis of Cyprus in the second round.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cap in hand: Salary structure in jeopardy?

NHL lockout. Fehr says extended lockout could cause NHLPA to reassess playing under salary cap

Donald Fehr expressed some hope that collective bargaining talks this week will help lead to some resolution.

But he also made it clear in an hour-long meeting with the Torstar News Service editorial board that the longer the NHL lockout lasts, the less happy the players will be playing under a salary cap.

"If this goes on for an extended period of time, I don't know what they (the players) are going to do. But I think it's safe to say, they would be exploring all options," said Fehr.

He added the players can live with a salary cap if an agreement can be reached quickly.

"Where the players are, they want to make a deal," Fehr said. "Even though the owners' proposal went as far away from the players as they could, the players did not respond in kind. They made a proposal which moved in the owners' direction. If there can be an agreement in a relatively short term, which puts the pieces back together and gets the season going, I think the players can live with that."

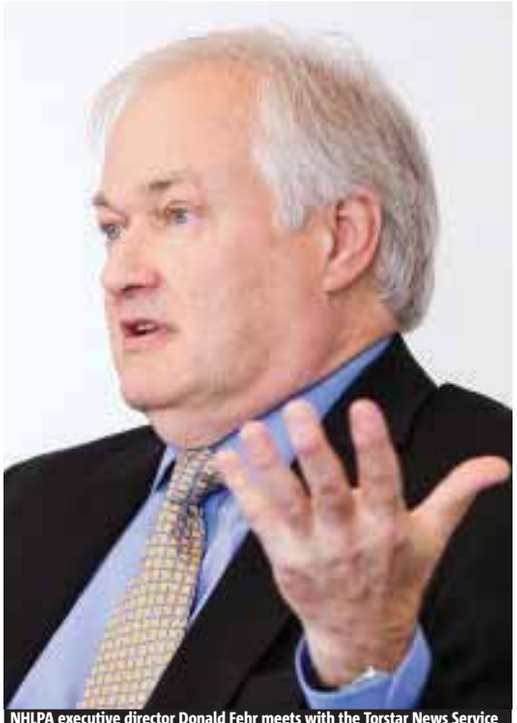
Fehr fell short of calling for the salary cap to be scrapped outright — something that would put the NHL and the players further apart. But it was a reminder to commissioner Gary Bettman and the owners — on the eve of new talks with the league on non-core economic issues — that things can get ugly in a hurry.

"I hope we can continue to make some progress on what we call the non-core economic issues and I hope we can have discussions that can spark a new round of significant talks on the core economic issues," said Fehr.

NHL deputy commissioner Bill Daly said the league has heard the association's threats related to the salary cap before.

"Ultimately, it's their call," Daly said in an email to Torstar News Service. "Hopefully, we all want a quicker resolution to this negotiation than a longer one. How the PA ultimately decides to deal with that issue will be very telling."

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE



NHLPA executive director Donald Fehr meets with the Torstar News Service editorial board on Tuesday. ANDREW FRANCIS WALLACE/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Quoted

"In basketball (the NBA locked out its players last season) they played 75, 80 per cent of the season starting as late as Christmas. I do hope we start many weeks before Christmas."

NHLPA executive director Donald Fehr on Tuesday. Fehr declined to predict when he thought the NHL season might begin.

Dates to watch

Oct. 19
Potential date of the next round of game cancellations.

Nov. 10
Hall of Fame Game weekend, first big weekend for league on a national scale.

Nov. 23
Black Friday on U.S. Thanksgiving weekend — also the date NBC was to kick off its TV broadcast schedule; a very important date for the NHL.

Dec. 7
Another round of cancellations? Pretty well the latest hold-out date before cancelling the Winter Classic.

Dec. 21
If two more weeks are scrapped here, start thinking about the integrity of season.

Jan. 1
Winter Classic — Toronto vs. Detroit at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Jan. 11
Date the 1994-95 lockout ended, salvaging a 48-game season.

Jan. 18
Be very pessimistic about the season, if there's another round of cancellations.

Feb. 16
Date the 2004-05 season was cancelled.

Giants stay alive with exta-innings win

Giants relief pitcher Sergio Romo reacts after the final out of Game 3 on Tuesday night in Cincinnati. JONATHAN DANIEL/GETTY IMAGES

Third baseman Scott Rolen's error with two outs in the 10th inning gave San Francisco the go-ahead run, and the Giants edged the Cincinnati Reds 2-1 Tuesday night to cut their NL playoff deficit to 2-1.

The Giants avoided a division series sweep when Rolen, an eight-time Gold Glove winner, bobbled Joaquin Arias' short-hop grounder and threw late to first.

San Francisco was held hitless into the sixth by Homer Bailey, managing only three hits overall with 16 strikeouts.

But the Giants got two hits in the 10th and were helped by a passed ball.

Left-hander Barry Zito will start Game 4 on Wednesday for the Giants. The Reds have to decide whether to try ace Johnny Cueto, forced out of the opener with spasms in his back and side. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Game 3

| Giants | Reds |
|---|---|
| 2 | 1 |

Still waiting

Cincinnati hasn't won a home playoff game in 17 years.

- The Reds won back-to-back World Series in 1975-76 and in 1990 swept Oakland to win another.
- Since then they've been swept by Atlanta in the 1995 NLCS, lost a one-game playoff for the wild card to the Mets in 1999 and got swept by the Phillies in the NLDS in 2010.

4 SPORTS

DRIVE

Peugeot's concept gem is much more than four-wheel eye candy

Onyx. The slick car's looks may hold your attention but under its shiny exterior lies many admirable, greener features

AUTO PILOT
Mike Goetz
drive@metronews.ca

The Peugeot Onyx allows its looks to do the talking but there is much more to this car than just aesthetics. CONTRIBUTED Sugarcoating gets a bad wrap. A coat of sweety goodness over something unsweet? What's wrong with that?

If it weren't for Honey Nut Cheerios a lot of us would be woefully deficient in essential substances, like Riboflavin, Thiamine and sodium.

There is a type of sugar coating in the automotive world too and it is equally delicious — the concept car.

Automakers need to constantly develop technologies, some exciting, some boring, some in the middle.

When it comes time to let the world and their stakeholders know about the fruits of their labours, automakers help their cause by almost always incorporating the various technologies into a sexy concept form, then unveiling that vehicle at a major auto show with a photogenic human accompanying it on stage.

The alternative would be to present a technical paper about the technologies at an industry symposium, the kind filled with large name badges, stale "urn" coffee and break-out sessions. Guess which communication method gets the most attention? A case in point is the Peugeot Onyx, the concept that stole the spotlight at the recent 2012 Paris auto show.

Peugeot could have just told us about the technological areas they're currently working on, like… making vehicles look like they've been handcrafted by metalwork artisans… gaining lightness through carbon fibre… developing sporty and fuel-efficient diesel engines… capturing and re-deploying a car's kinetic energy… And trying to build vehicles with more recyclable materials.

All that sounds good, but the Peugeot Onyx looks even better.

The doors and front fenders are fashioned from pure copper, by hand, by a master craftsman. Being copper, the metal's appearance will change over time. The rest of the body panels are carbon fibre, painted black.

The carbon fibre chassis features less individual parts than normal. This "monolithic" design furthers both stiffness and lightness; it tips the scales just over 100 kg (220 pounds).

Mounted mid-ship is Peugeot Sport's 3.7-litre diesel V8, a version of which sees duty in the automaker's Le Mans racers. It transmits 600 hp to the rear wheels via a six-speed sequential gearbox.

The Hybrid4 technology recovers kinetic energy usually lost during braking, by storing it in lithium batteries, then automatically delivering it during acceleration, boosting power by a further 80 horses.

The main material in the interior is wool felt. The wool felt is formed as a one-piece pod — we're talking bucket seats, floor, upper console, and roof!

The pod is fitted directly against the carbon fibre structure, and even does double-duty as soundproofing material. In places where it contacts the body, there is extra foam.

The dashboard and part of the console are constructed of old newspapers, or more precisely, old newspapers compressed under great pressure to form "logs."

Apparently the logs seem to have a "grain" to them, and on closer inspection you can see that the grains are created by the newspaper's printed type.

The Peugeot Onyx is eye candy, yes, but like a lot of automotive concepts it is very healthy eye candy — the kind with real fibre, protein, and nutrients.

Mobile Glass Replacement for industrial vehicles and heavy equipment
Oh Crack!
Don't Delay – Get It Fixed Today!
Our mobile repair specialist will come to you on your schedule
novus
AUTO GLASS REPAIR & REPLACEMENT
260 Albert St. • www.novusregina.com • novus@sasktel.net • 306.525.6444

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Things may get hot over the next 24 hours, but that's OK because you are the kind of person who thrives when the pressure is on. Just make sure you remember to keep thinking. Instinct alone won't be enough.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
You may have to give ground to a rival today, simply because he or she is even more stubborn than you are! The planets warn that if you go toe-to-toe with them, it could be you who comes off second best.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
If someone you work or do business with gets a bit aggressive today, you would be wise not to meet their challenge head-on. This is the kind of confrontation you cannot win, so be sensible.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
You are in the kind of mood where you are quite prepared to turn your life upside down if you believe it is needed to bring success. You may be right, but don't go too far and get rid of everything.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
You will get what you want today — one way or the other. But Mercury linked to power planet Pluto suggests you may upset a few people along the way. Do you care? That just has to be a stupid question.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Put the past behind you and focus on the future. There is no point dwelling on what might have been, and why would you want to when your current prospects are so good? Each day can be a new beginning.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
Do you have the guts to take some kind of gamble? If you do, it could well pay off — especially if you act decisively on what your inner voice tells you. Others will disagree, of course. But they know nothing.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
Mercury in your sign linked to your ruler Pluto means there is not a shadow of doubt in your mind, but others are not so sure you know what you are doing. Your task today is to find ways to convince them.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
Seize the initiative today. Make your bid for fame and fortune. If you don't, you may look back later and wonder what might have been — and the worst part is, you will never know. Do something daring!

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Sometimes in life you have to make a decision and stick to it, and this is one of those times. Whatever you are called to act on today, you must be brave and you must be bold. Anything less invites failures.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
You know what needs to be done in your life, so get on and do it and don't worry about whether or not other people will approve. Remember: You don't have to please them — they have to please you.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
If you are happy with your life the way it is then fine. If, however, there are things you would like to change now is the time to start making plans. Make them big plans too. Don't limit your horizons.

SALLY BROMPTON

Miscellany

BY MICHAEL WIESENBERG

Across
1. Permits (someone to do something)
5. Chicken ___ king (2 wds.)
8. Double-reed woodwind
12. Skin soother
13. Actor Alda, Ladd, or Rickman
14. Witch
15. "... was blind but now ___": Amazing Grace (2 wds.)
16. It blows off the ocean
17. Smell
18. Curtails
20. Predicament
21. Conceals
22. Not him
23. Duress
26. Northwest ___: sea route on the Canadian mainland's north coast
30. When doubled, a dance
31. Engraved with acid
34. Ailments
35. Arise anew
37. ___ and Order
38. Pig's nose
39. Summers: Fr.
40. Kidnapper's demand for money
42. Society page adjective that means "born" in French
43. Sang like a bird
45. Disappear, like a hairline
47. Not young
48. Eucalyptus-loving marsupial of Australia
50. Plant used to make poi
52. Largest New Brunswick city, whose spelling is sometimes confused with the capital of Newfoundland and Labrador (2 wds.)
56. Bay of ___: location of 52-Across
57. Crooned
58. Garfield comic strip dog
59. Signed, as a contract
60. Give's opposite
61. Evil grin
62. Close at hand
63. Bro's female counterpart
64. Defunct US gasoline brand still active in Canada

Down
1. Refuge
2. "If all ___ fails, read the directions"
3. Baby's "piggies"
4. Be boiling mad
5. Wonderland girl
6. Goes on and on
7. Aardvark delicacies
8. Has food delivered (2 wds.)
9. Heckles
10. Burden
11. Always: poetic contraction
13. Among
14. Arrives
19. Step part
22. "I've ___ it with you!"
23. Alternative to a nail
24. 8th Greek letter, it comes before iota
25. Grand Prix car
26. Church benches
27. By oneself
28. Applied epoxy
29. ___ Lauder: cosmetics and fragrance brand
32. Dressed
33. Solo of Star Wars
36. Boundary that runs through four Great Lakes (2 wds.)
38. Silvery food fish
40. Valentine color
41. Citrus fruit that's also a color
44. Actor Christopher of the Back to the Future series
46. Coax gently
48. Hawaii's Garden Isle
49. Pig sounds
50. Adjust to the correct pitch
51. Ottawa-born singer/composer who wrote My Way
52. Former faster-than-sound jets: initialism
53. Wordsworth works
54. Goes quickly
55. Fiddler while Rome burned
56. Fish's steering mechanism

Yesterday's Crossword

What's online

See today's answers at metronews.ca/answers.

Sudoku

How to play
Fill in the grid, so that every row, every column and every 3x3 box contains the digits 1-9. There is no math involved. You solve the puzzle with reasoning and logic.

| | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | 4 | | 7 | 5 | 8 | | 1 | |
| 2 | | | | | | | | 5 |
| | | 9 | | | | 3 | | |
| 9 | 7 | | 6 | | 5 | | 4 | 2 |
| | | | | 7 | | | | |
| 6 | 2 | | 8 | | 4 | | 7 | 3 |
| | | 7 | | | | 4 | | |
| 1 | | | | | | | | 8 |
| | 6 | | 1 | 8 | 9 | | 3 | |

Yesterday's Sudoku

Today 7°/-7° Partly sunny
Thursday 3°/-3° Sunny
POINTCAST Get Your 1km Weather
©The Weather Network 2012

Sharability

easy — hard

A funny thing happens when you tell kids they matter. They believe you.

An alarming 40,000 kids drop out of high school every year. Boys and Girls Clubs of Canada are committed to changing that. They provide a safe and supportive place where kids can develop confidence and life skills. They offer programs like Rogers Raising the Grade™ to help kids with their studies. The Club is a place where kids can drop in, so they're less likely to drop out.

ROGERS Youth Fund™ Proud supporter of Boys & Girls Clubs of Canada
Clubs Garçons et Filles du Canada

With education, anything's possible.™

rogersyouthfund.com

ROGERS™